iVIVA! Comes Alive

n September and October we celebrate iVIVA!: Latino Hispanic Heritage Month. In Spanish, "Viva" translates as "to live"—and you are invited to our virtual fiesta with a kaleidoscope of programs for youth, families and adults: craft programs, a family cooking class, artist and author talks, Queer Latinx History, Latinx kid lit panels and a concert.

With school back in session, the SF Early Literacy Network will share critical student success and family support resources to ease into this school year.

Kid and adult booklovers alike will not want to miss a conversation between Oakland Public Library and SFPL discussing their top picks for past and upcoming Latinx kidlit titles and the impact of the Pura Belpré Book Award. Two weeks later, Latinx authors Aida Salazar, Rebecca Balcárcel and Reina Luz Alegre, members of the groundbreaking author collective, Las Musas, share their latest works, discuss Latinx cultural elements and offer advice for young writers.

The Lucky Band

Cultural programs abound with a special amate paper craft program offered in partnership with The Mexican Museum, family cooking class presented in Spanish and a special family concert by Latin Grammy winners The Lucky Band. Weekly storytimes in Spanish offer an early literacy foundation for caregivers of children up to 5 years old.

Adults can look forward to a celebration of culture, art and authors. In anticipation of SFMOMA's Diego Rivera's

Section of mural: Pan American Unity by Diego Rivera

Roberto Lovato

America, scholar Will Maynez discusses Rivera's time in San Francisco. Additionally, we are partnering with The Mexican Museum for two art talks. Robert McDonald of Bond Latin Gallery presents "Mexico in San Francisco," a visual presentation of Mexican artists who were instrumental in a movement blending politics and beauty, and well-known Mexican contemporary painter Daniel Lezama discusses a retrospective of his work.

Authors of compelling works compose a key part of iVIVA!. Roberto Lovato and Ingrid Rojas Contreras will discuss writing and Lovato's new book, Unforgetting: A Memoir of Family, which recounts in this anguished memoir his 2015 trip to

Benjamin Bac Sierra

El Salvador to investigate the country's horrific gang wars.

Benjamin Bac Sierra, author, educator, activist and SF native, talks about his new book, Pura Neta, the long-awaited sequel to Barrio Bushido.

For program information, see the calendar on page 3 and sfpl.org/viva.

Library Hosts Community Learning Hubs

n late July, Mayor London N. Breed announced that San Francisco would transform facilities around the city into supervised Community Learning Hubs to support distance learning for San Francisco Unified School District students starting this fall.

The Department of Children, Youth and Their Families is spearheading this effort to launch the Hubs on Sept. 14 at more than 40 sites across the city including select branch libraries: Anza, Bayview, Bernal Heights, Chinatown, Glen Park, Ingleside, Noe Valley, North Beach, Ortega, Portola, Potrero, Richmond, Sunset, Visitacion Valley and Western Addition. Other sites include recreation centers, cultural centers and several community-based organizations. The Hubs will provide support to students while prioritizing "Libraries are sanctuaries of learning, and we look forward to welcoming students and doing our part to ensure a successful academic year."

children and youth with the highest need, including low-income and high need youth.

"San Francisco Public Library is ready to support families during this challenging time," stated City Librarian Michael Lambert. "Libraries are sanctuaries of learning, and we look forward to welcoming students through our doors and doing our part to ensure a successful academic year."

For more information, visit dcyf.org/care.

More SFPL To Go locations added! You can now drop off and pick up materials at Eureka Valley, Marina, Merced and Mission Bay branches. Find out more at sfpl.org/sfpl-to-go.

Chanel Miller's Know My Name: A Memoir Named 2021 One City One Book Selection

an Francisco is rolling out the red carpet for Bay Area native Chanel Miller. In addition to an exhibition of original artworks at the Asian Art Museum, San Francisco Public Library has selected her book, Know My Name: A Memoir (Penguin Random House), as next year's One City One Book title. A citywide literary event, One City One Book: San Francisco Reads encourages members of the San Francisco community to read the same book at the same time and then discuss it in a variety of public programs.

Next year's program coincides with the Library's annual Asian Pacific Islander American Heritage Celebration and Sexual Assault Awareness Month—a cause championed by Miller.

Universally acclaimed, rapturously reviewed and an instant New York Times bestseller, Chanel Miller's breathtaking memoir "gives readers the privilege of knowing her not just as Emily Doe, but as Chanel Miller the writer, the artist, the survivor, the fighter" (The Wrap). Her story of trauma and transcendence illuminates a culture biased to protect perpetrators, indicting a criminal justice system designed to fail the most vulnerable, and, ultimately, shines with the courage required to move through suffering and live a full and beautiful life.

Know My Name will forever transform the way we think about sexual assault, challenging our beliefs about what is acceptable and speaking truth to the tumultuous reality of healing.

School Tools for Distance Learning Success

Pura Neta by Benjamin Bac Sierra

In conjunction with iVIVA!: Latino Heritage Month, SFPL is honored to host Benjamin Bac Sierra as our On the Same Page author. We celebrate this local author, educator, poet, activist and Mission District native. Bac Sierra's new book Pura Neta, the longawaited sequel to Barrio Bushido, is due out in September from Pochino Press.

Set in the San Francisco Mission barrio from 2012 to 2014, Pura Neta explores the creative struggle of homeboys and homegirls fighting against gentrification, police brutality, racism and economic and educational injustice. Benjamin Bac Sierra was raised by a widowed mother and the streets of the Mission District. He served in the Marine Corps, where he participated in frontline combat during the first Gulf War. He is a professor at City College of San Francisco, a community innovator and keynote speaker throughout the Bay Area. Bac Sierra's essays and stories have been published in newspapers and literary magazines. His first novel, Barrio Bushido, received a Best of the Bay Award and an International Latino Book Award.

Bac Sierra will be interviewed by Luis J. Rodriguez, author of Always Running: La Vida Loca and most recently From Our Land to Our Land: Essays, Journeys, and Imaginings from a Native Xicanx Writer.

On the Same Page Events: Author Talk – Sept. 30, 7 p.m. Book Club – Sept 28, 7 p.m. and Oct. 26, 7 p.m.

Teens Create Educational Videos, Bridge Technology Gap

This summer, 29 teens collaborated on content creation for STEM tutorials and tech tools. The YELL internship program culminated with two Community Impact Projects.

STEM Challenge - Two-thirds of the YELL members were on Team STEM Challenge and were charged with brainstorming, developing, creating, executing and evaluating a group of video tutorials for elementary and middle school students. Using easily accessible materials, the videos included such lessons as how to make ice cream in a bag, a pencil catapult launcher and a bee hummer and straw oboe. The teens filled a variety of roles like editor, graphic designer, script writer, talent and host. See final films at sfpl.org/stemchallenge.

Tech For Elders (T4E) – The remaining third of YELL members assisted seniors living in Sequoia Living affordable housing. Over the phone, youth assessed both prior knowledge and current barriers and goals for technology use, and offered friendly, patient tutoring tailored to the interests of the senior. It became apparent that being able to meet via video call was a prerequisite for being able to demonstrate any other task, so the cohort developed print and online tutorials for a variety of operating systems to instruct on how to register for and use a Zoom video-conferencing account. The materials developed by YELL have already been put to use in other library tech-help programs, and will continue to be a great resource as the demand for accessing the Library's eResources continues to grow.

For the fourth year, YELL teens have shown the resilience, determination and integrity of our teen community. They have contributed over 800 hours of time creating community, doing a deep dive into professional skills, learning about library resources and offering event and program suggestions to carry us through 2020

Sharpen Your Skills, Transform Your Life with Udemy

e are excited to add the new eResource Udemy—dynamic video courses that can help you sharpen your skills and achieve your learning goals. Udemy is comprehensive and easy-to-use, so it's perfect for both job seekers and lifelong learners.

Friends of the San Francisco Public Library

Shop for Books Online and Support Your Library

Online book sales are back and more robust than ever

Friends has always had a small online bookselling operation, but now it is bigger than ever, including your favorite sections from our bookstores.

Before COVID-19, we received donated rare and collectible books and put them up for auction or sold them online to raise money for our mission to support the Library. As of Aug. 1, we have relaunched our entire online bookselling operation to offer those high-demand titles and added vinyl to our online collection.

Selections currently include a first edition copy of The Handmaid's Tale and a rare collection of photos by Jan Saudek and, in paperback, a copy of The Incendiaries by R.O. Kwon. All your book needs are available on our two online stores on eBay and Amazon. Both these platforms are optimized for you to browse our listings. Find the online store links on FriendsSFPL.org/shop.

By shopping the Friends' online bookstores, you can specifically get what you are looking for and stumble upon something you weren't expecting to find. Product photos are available in the eBay store so you can see exactly how the item looks before you buy. Browsing Friends' unique book selections safely from your home during the COVID-19 pandemic is now easier than ever. Go to FriendsSFPL.org/shop today to support our public library.

Thank you to our book donors, whose generosity supports our incredible offerings.
